DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

3. Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Rosenfeld (US 6307576 B1).

As per claim 8, Rosenfeld teaches an article of manufacture comprising a machine-readable medium having instructions stored thereon to cause a processor to translate an animation vector to a target mix vector" (Rosenfeld, figure 3) by: generating a calibration vector; and mapping the animation vector to the target mix vector using the calibration vector (Rosenfeld, column 6, line 25 to column 7, line 35). It is noted that Rosenfeld does not explicitly disclose an animation vector, a target mix vector, a calibration vector as claimed; however, Rosenfeld's the morph weight sets transitions from it's current state to its target state (column 6, lines 54-59) analogous to Applicant's animation vector, target mix vector, and calibration vector. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made using the morph weight sets with the weights as the components of the vectors for the transitions, current, target state to produce facial expression in the production of animated product because in Rosenfeld teaching, the animation vector (i.e., the current state) is mapped by the calibration vector (i.e., the transitional curve) into the target mix vector (i.e., the target state) for forming the animation process.

4. Applicant's arguments filed April 23, 2004 have been fully considered but they are not deemed to be persuasive. Applicant argues that for claim 8, Rosenfeld uses a manual technique that requires a user to define a set of rules to associate phonemes with morph sets which is not correct. Given a set of rules, the mapping between the phonemes and morph sets is automatically performed without any involving of user; furthermore, it would have been obvious for defining a sets of rules in advance, then the system can later automatically perform the operations according to a previously set up.

5. Claims 9-13 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

6. Claims 1-7, and 14-20 are allowed.

Conclusion

7. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
